We deliver travel differently

A Covid-19 new world has forced many industries to change the way they think, behave, interact and none more so than the world of travel. How will travel change? Will it still be safe to travel? We are seeing a lot of information about proposed changes around airports, inflight service, and hotels but what about ground transport?

From ride share to taxis and hire companies, corporate travellers can expect new procedures when utilising these services to ensure safety and compliance with government regulations. With constant changes and fluidity in travel, organisations must take their duty of care seriously. The expert guidance of a travel agent will assure businesses their corporate travel is in safe hands.

Here is a listing of ground transport companies and links to their COVID-19 policies.
